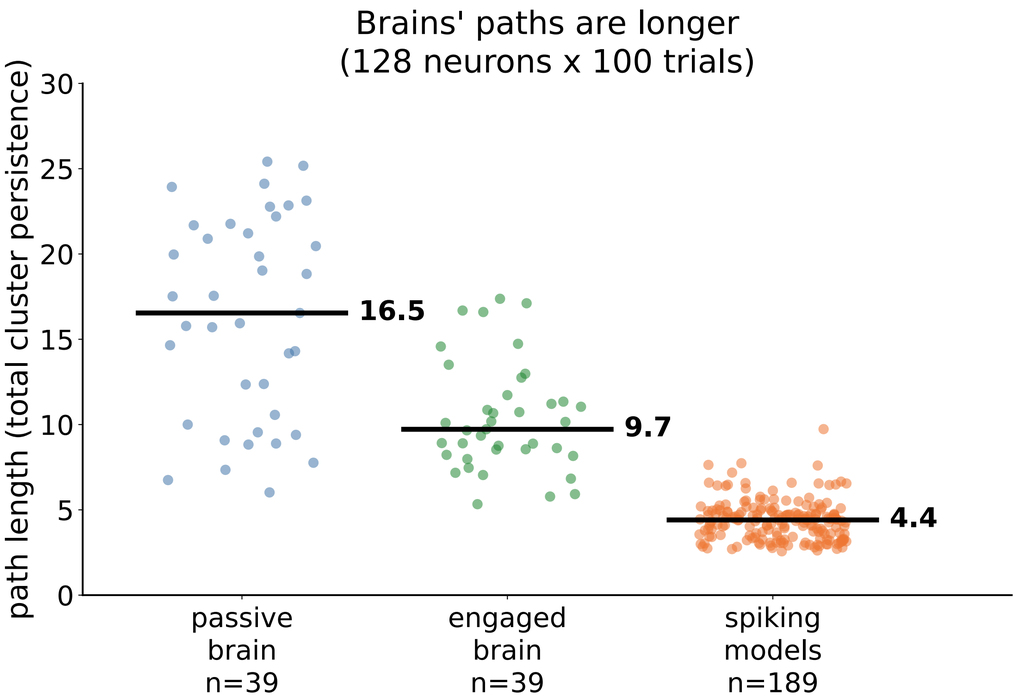
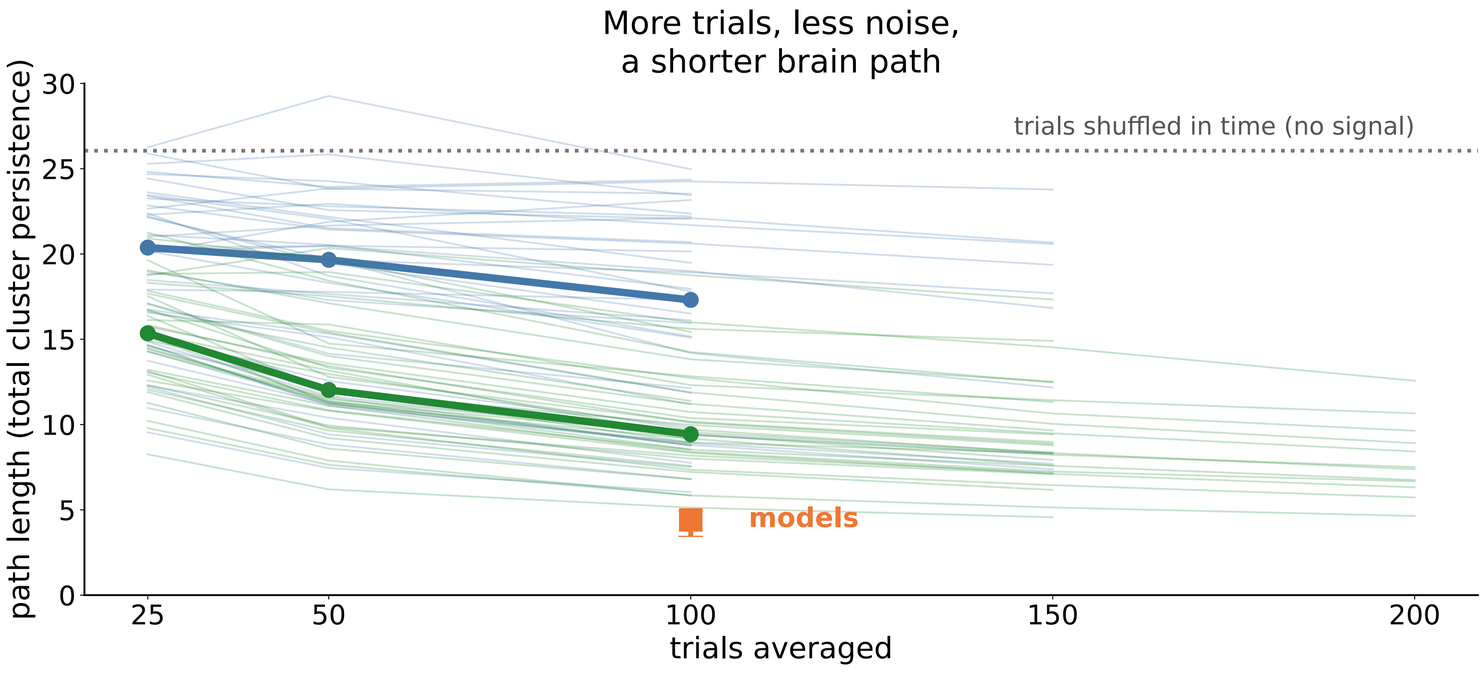
Brains' average paths are longer than models', and noise makes them longer





Left: each dot one brain population (13 sessions) or one trained network; bars, medians. Right: each thin line one brain population (mean of 5 trial draws), thick lines medians where every population has the trials; models at 100 trials only, median and quartiles (no model was rerun). Descriptive, no test.